A NEW APPROACH TO THE CONCEPTS OF "FREEDOM OF SPEECH" AND "FREEDOM OF THE PRESS" IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF PHILOSOPHICAL THINKING IN SOCIETY

Eshbekov Bakhodir

Researcher at the Samarkand State Institute of Foreign Languages

Abstract: Ensuring freedom of speech in the mass media, achieving freedom of the press is of urgent importance in the development of socio-philosophical thinking, and the issues of the development of freedom of the press in the reforms implemented by Uzbekistan in recent years are described.

Keywords: mass media, society, Uzbekistan, development, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, citizens.

Today's globalization processes serve to further increase the role and influence of mass media in society, more precisely, to ensure the possibility and speed of obtaining information. If 20 years ago there were only a few mass media registered by the state, today their number is increasing. In this regard, Decree of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan, dated June 27, 2019 No. PP-4366 "On further measures to ensure the independence of the media and develop the activities of the press services of state bodies and organizations" was adopted to ensure freedom of speech in our country, reorganization of the information management system and mass communications was an important step in enhancing the role of the media in solving problematic issues of socio-political and economic development. In the development of the philosophical thinking of citizens in society, "It should be noted that the media comprehensively analyze the processes of large-scale transformations and renewals taking place in our country, drawing the attention of state bodies and the public to local social problems, mistakes and shortcomings" [1].

Therefore, ensuring freedom of speech in all media in society, achieving freedom of the press is of relevance in the development of socio-philosophical thinking. At the moment, strengthening the role of freedom of speech, expanding the scope of logical thinking and philosophical thinking of citizens in society is considered an urgent issue of social reforms. In the development of philosophical thinking in society, "The legal basis for ensuring freedom of speech, the comprehensive development of the media, and the free activity of journalists and bloggers will be further strengthened" [2]. Such activity directly requires all of us to develop a new outlook and approach to reality, to live on the basis of national values and national ideals.

We can see the development of freedom of the press in the reforms implemented by Uzbekistan in recent years. In this regard, it should be noted that the new ideas and initiatives of the head of our state give new strength and encouragement to mass media workers. As Sh. Mirziyov noted, "It is well known to all of us that the work of the press and mass media has always been difficult and responsible. This responsibility is getting stronger in the current period, when our country is moving to a new stage of development, openness and transparency, freedom of speech and opinion are becoming the criteria of our life" [3]. Living with such a reality of life, the dedication of the dedicated people of the industry in ensuring the prosperous life of the people is certainly commendable.

The attention paid to mass media activity in the years of independence of Uzbekistan was not the same as in the last 3-4 years. Before that, if you tried to express your opinion on, say, the existing problems in the areas, even if you were able to express an opinion, you were somehow looked at differently. But today, regardless of who we are, we had the opportunity to express our national idea about the problem of the people, the perspective of the society, within the framework of freedom of speech and philosophical thinking, and to see its result in real life, regardless of who we are. In this process, we have the opportunity to solve the existing problems in society on the basis of "People's Reception", "Prime Minister's Reception" and mobile receptions within the framework of the law for citizens. In addition, every citizen can express his opinion electronically or with the help of his ordinary mobile phone to the head of state. So, how does this affect the minds of people? At first, citizens gradually acquired skills in this regard, and now, day by day, the increase in such information is direct evidence of the development of socio-philosophical thinking and the way of thinking of the people.

The issues of freedom of speech and freedom of the press in the mass media lead citizens to take a responsible approach to their activities, to draw logical conclusions from critical attitudes in relation to the processes they hear and observe in reality. Philosophical thinking is important in this, and serves to increase the leadership responsibility of all officials. In these processes, the most important thing is to ensure impartiality, correctness and transparency, and it is time to set clear goals and objectives in each area. As the role and influence of the mass media in the development of society is increasing today, we need to deeply understand that freedom of speech and freedom of the press serve to enrich the socio-political, legal, knowledge and morale of our citizens, and to increase their sense of belonging to the development of the country.

Today, mass media is an important social mechanism in finding solutions to problems related to a modern barber shop, beauty salon, service and service shops, playgrounds, road repair, communication networks, internet systems in some remote village. Based on such an effective approach, these problems will be solved step by step by representatives of local authorities and business entities, and such activities will directly change the appearance of our regions and increase the confidence of our people in the future. That is why all of us should work as a participant in these processes and as a driving force of an active society, and strive for high goals.
